PAINTER. n. f. [peintre, Fr. from paint.] One who professes the art of representing objects by colours.
 In the placing let some care be taken how the painter did stand in the working. Wotton's Architecture.
 Beauty is only that which makes all things as they are in their proper and perfect nature; which the best painters always chase by contemplating the forms of each. Dryden.
PAINTING. n. f. [from paint.]
 1. The art of representing objects by delineation and colours.
 If painting be acknowledged for an art, it follows that no arts are without their precepts. Dryden.
 'Tis in life as 'tis in painting,
 Much may be right, yet much be wanting. Prior.
 2. Picture; the painted resemblance.
 This is the very painting of your fear;
 This is the air-drawn dagger which you said,
 Led you to Duncan. Shakefp. Macbeth.
Painting is welcome;
 The painting is almost the natural man:
 For since dishonour trafficks with man's nature,
 He is but outside: pencil'd figures are Ev'n such as they give out. Shakefp. Timon of Athens.
 3. Colours laid on.
